• Select the correct term from the drop down menu.
• Print your schedule.

The F-1 student visa and I-20 give you certain rights:

- You have the right to study at North Park University. If you wish to transfer your F-1 student status to another F-1 granting school you must contact the Office of International Affairs. You must formally withdraw from North Park University (see Student Services) before you are eligible for academic transfer.
- You have the right to travel within the U.S.; you have the right to travel outside the U.S. and return from another country as long as your I-20 is signed by an Office of International Affairs staff member before you leave the U.S. and as long as you have an unexpired F-1 visa in your passport.
- You have the right to work on-campus up to 20 hours per week.

The F-1 student visa and I-20 require certain responsibilities:

- You must have a valid passport and know your I-94 form Admission Number at all times.
- You must take a full load of studies (undergraduate, ESL, or exchange—at least 12 credits; graduate—at least 8 credits) each semester.
- You must make satisfactory progress in your studies.
- You must pay all your bills to North Park and not get into debt. International students must have their student account balance paid in full by the first day of class each semester.

- If you lose any documents (passport, visa, I-20 form) or the forms expire, it is your responsibility to maintain F-1 status by requesting help from the Office of International Affairs to get new documents.

You should qualify and apply for an internship at the Career Development and Internships Office (Johnson Center, First Floor).
