A Brief History of North Park University

North Park University's roots can be traced back to a church basement in Minneapolis, Minn., in 1891, where classes in music, religion, language, and business gave Swedish immigrants education and skills to prosper in a new nation. With an offer of land in Chicago, the school moved to the North Park neighborhood just north of the city limits, which at that time ended at Irving Park Road.

In the fall of 1894, Old Main, the first building on campus, was completed. The Georgian Revival structure housed all departments of the school—classrooms, faculty offices, sleeping quarters, library, gymnasium, and dining room. In the 1920s, pilots used the cupola atop Old Main as a landmark to find Orchard Field (today's O'Hare International Airport), as the cupola was the tallest point on the city's north side.

Since that time, North Park has expanded and adapted its educational mission to the changing times. At various times it included a seminary, academy, junior college, four-year liberal arts college, and, since 1997, a university. In recent years, much time and many resources have been invested in renovating campus facilities, including the 2001 construction of the Brandel Library, the 2003 renovation of the central campus green, the 2004 construction of the Holmgren Athletic Complex for football, soccer, softball, and baseball; the acquisition of the Park North student residence in 2005; the addition of the Helwig Recreation Center and Sawyer Court student residence in the fall of 2006; and the renovation of Burgh Hall in 2008, Ohlson Hall in 2009, Sohlberg Hall in 2011, Anderson Hall in 2012, and the Johnson Center for Science and Community Life in 2014.

The university's distinction for city-centered learning was advanced in 2017 with adoption of Chicago-based curricular and co-curricular programs collectively identified as CATALYST 606_._.

Mission

The mission of North Park University is to prepare students for lives of significance and service through education in the liberal arts, professional studies, and theology.

Aspiration

North Park University will be distinguished as the nation's leading city-centered Christian university during the coming decade and beyond.

Core Values

- Christian—We nurture Christian faith while welcoming students from all faith traditions.
- City-centered—We engage Chicago as our dynamic place of learning and service.
- Intercultural—We embrace and value all people, educating students for the complex global cultural tapestry.

Educational Ideals

Reflecting the core values which shape our distinctive learning community, students at North Park University experience an education that:

- Is rooted in and committed to the Christian faith and its sacred text, the Bible
- Engages Chicago as a dynamic context for learning and service
- Embraces all people and celebrates the richness of cultural difference
- Affirms learning in all its forms—in the classroom and beyond—as a gift, a joy, and a sacred obligation
- Encourages dialogue as a means of learning where open inquiry, integrity, and civility guide our life together
- Seeks to form and transform the whole student (intellectually, socially, and spiritually)
- Values each student for who he or she is and will become

Academic Regalia

Today’s academic costume is a legacy of the Middle Ages. In that period, the loose-fitting academic gowns, which today are merely decorative, served a useful purpose—keeping warm in the drafty and unheated stone buildings of the medieval university. Academic hoods were equally useful for keeping the head warm. But then, as now, clothing served not only practical purposes, but was also a way to define status. When the practical uses of academic garb were superseded by central heating, the symbolic use remained.

Most academic gowns in the United States today are black. The unadorned bachelor’s gown is the simplest in design. The master’s gown is somewhat more ample, with a peculiar half-sleeve. The doctoral gown is yet more generous of cut and distinguished by velvet facing and three velvet chevrons on the sleeve. The velvet may be black, or it may reflect the color of the wearer’s degree. You will notice, however, that some faculty are more colorfully attired. These more splendid gowns have traditionally denoted degrees from European universities, where each institution prescribes its own regalia. In recent years, however, American institutions have increasingly departed from the somber black and adopted their own more colorful garb for doctoral degrees.

Academic hoods reflect both the wearer’s degree by the size of the hood and the color of the velvet trim, and the institution from which the degree was earned. At North Park, hoods are worn by both graduates and faculty. The degree colors commonly found at North Park are:

White	Arts and Letters
Gold	Science
Apricot	Nursing
Pink	Music
Scarlet	Theology or Divinity
Peacock Blue	Community Development
Drab	Business Administration, Economics, Management
Light Blue	Education
Dark Blue	Philosophy
Purple	Law
Green	Medicine
Brown	Fine Arts

The hood linings carry the colors of the school at which the degree was earned.

Academic Mace

A common symbol in modern academic processions, the tradition of a mace stems from a medieval weapon but has a function closer to a monarch’s scepter, as it represents authority. When used in academic processions the mace symbolizes the institution’s academic mission.

The mace used by North Park University encompasses three symbols which represent our educational mission. First, the torch reflects the school motto, “In Thy Light Shall We See Light.” Second, the growth metaphor calls attention to the holistic intellectual, emotional, and spiritual maturity we seek to nurture in students. Third, the three-fold nature of the composition of the mace (the three legs of the stand, its three layers, and the three flames) simultaneously represent the Trinity of the Christian tradition and three components of the University’s academic program (liberal arts, professional studies, and theological education).

The mace is constructed from walnut and hammered brass. These materials combine a strong color contrast with warm tonality. The materials also are linked with the growth and light symbolism of the mace. The walnut portion has been shaped in an organic curvilinear manner to suggest growth, and the brass portion has been hammered to cause light to flicker over its surface in a flame-like way. The complex interaction between these materials and the symbolic meaning of the mace is illustrated through the torch flames, which can also be seen as plant leaves or sprouts.

Nyvall Medallion Recipient

Rev. Dr. David W. Kersten C'77 S'82 DMin'97

For more than a decade, North Park University has been delighted to recognize individuals who have served the campus community with exceptional distinction by awarding The Nyvall Medallion for Outstanding Service. The medallion is named for North Park's founding president, the visionary David Nyvall—and it acknowledges the recipients' extraordinary service, and the enduring impact of their contributions.

In honor of his significant leadership, service, and support for the mission of North Park University, the North Park University Board of Trustees has unanimously affirmed Rev. Dr. David W. Kersten C'77 S'82 DMin'97 as recipient of the David Nyvall Medallion for Outstanding Service to North Park University.

Rev. Dr. Kersten became the University's Vice President for Church Relations and Dean of North Park Theological Seminary in the fall of 2012. He had served more than 20 years as a Covenant pastor, with congregations in Alabama, Florida, Washington, and Minnesota, and for 11 years as Executive Minister of the Department of the Ordered Ministry in the Evangelical Covenant Church—a pastor to pastors.

Always a pastoral presence, Dave's invaluable service as Vice President for Church Relations and Dean of the Seminary, and a member of North Park's senior leadership team, has nurtured our strong relationship with the denomination, facilitated new partnerships, and provided strategic insight for the University.

Innovation has been the hallmark of his decade as seminary dean. Under his leadership the seminary partnered with the ECC and several ECC regional conferences to create the convenient and affordable Ignite program of cohort distance learning. North Park's Master of Arts in Christian Formation equips youth pastors, camp directors, adult educators and others to invite the Holy Spirit into the lives of the people and communities they serve. Dual degrees are available in partnership with the School of Business and Nonprofit Management.

And the renowned School of Restorative Arts (SRA) at Stateville Correctional Center, and at Logan Correctional Center for women, offers a master's degree in Christian Ministry to free and incarcerated students who study together. SRA is a model of innovation that exemplifies North Park's mission, and realizes with high impact all three of the university's distinctives – Christian, city-centered, and intercultural.

During his tenure as dean, Rev. Dr. Kersten has overseen the education and formation of more than 400 Christian leaders who were called, equipped, and sent to serve God's global mission.

Please join me in congratulating Dave, and in thanking him profoundly for the exceptional service that has brought so much to our seminary, and to North Park University.

It is in recognition for outstanding leadership that North Park University is pleased to recognize

Rev. Dr. David W. Kersten
